yesterday of the murder of his wife, Mary Spott Charlton. He was senenced to six years and five months in prison. As he has already served more than five years in prison the senis considered equivalent to setting him free.

Grown Presecutor Signor Mellini in his argument to the jury bitterly arraigned the prisoner. He categori-cally denied the representations of the defence that Chariton was mentally unbalanced when he beat his wife to death with a mallet and that he had provocation. The prosecutor insin-uated that Charlton had married the victim for her savings and appro-priated her jewels after killing her. Concluding he demanded a heavy afternoon at the home of Miss Marion Paige, 219 Park avenue. Prof. Edgave a most interesting talk on "Present Day American Verse," telling of the American poets of today and reading selections from the best of their works before the large gathering of women who were present. Prof. Reed advocated reading the work of the young writers of today, not, that in the poetical field any of them are equal to Shelley, Keats, Byron, Wordsworth and the other mmortals but that as we live today, we should know what is being produced today. The four poets now writing what

Prof. Reed considers the best artistic American verse, are Fannie Stearns Davis, Sarah Tesdale, Brian Hooker and Louis Untemeyer. The poets who are "in revolt" are Amy Lowell, Vachel Lindsay, Masters and Robert
